ABOUT TAYLOR MORRIS

After graduating Cedar Falls High School in 2007 - Taylor joined the Navy to pursue that field. He always set out to conquer the hardest and most challenging tasks. If you told him it was too hard or impossible, he would show you how to get it done. God's plan for him lead him to find a true passion Navy EOD (Explosive Ordinance Disposal), which meant Taylor was trained to know the ins and outs of bombs.

In January of 2012 he was deployed on his first tour to Afghanistan, set to return August 2012. On May 3rd, Taylor was injured in action. The injuries were profound to all four limbs; entailing loss of both legs above his knee, left arm from the bicep down, and right hand.

Since the date of injury Taylor has made a speedy recovery but still has a long journey before he reaches the finish line. He is at the Walter Reed Medical Hospital in Bethesda, Maryland where he works daily with physical therapist and occupational therapist.

Currently he is fitted for all four prosthetics, working to perfect his hand fine motor dexterity and agile leg movements.
